

Call for Applications:

A position is available in IKMZ's Science, Crisis and Risk Communication team (Prof. Mike S. Schäfer). The position can be filled as either a PostDoc (80%) or a Doctoral (60%) position.

What would you have to do?

- pursue your PhD and/or research projects
- attend conferences and publish
- take part in team projects
- teaching (1,5-2 hrs./semester)
- some administrative work

What should you bring with you?

- passion for scientific work
- a (good) degree in communications or a related subject
- experience with/interest in research on online communication and/or automated text analysis
- experience with/interest in science communication
- some German skills, organizational skills

What can we offer you?

- a broad range of questions from stakeholder communication over media/online content research to media effects analyses
- a research-oriented team
- a great working environment, and inspiring intellectual atmosphere, excellent resources

The position is advertised for 3 years, but could be extended by 3-6 years. The position is available immediately, but could also be filled later.

Please send your application (letter of motivation, CV, copy of degrees, if applicable: list of publications and taught courses) as a single pdf file to Valeria Rieser (v.rieser@ikmz.uzh.ch).

Deadline is March 5, 2018. But the call will remain open until a suitable candidate has been found.